

Colton supervisor betrayed voters

Colton Town Supervisor William Swafford, I want my vote back. Wasn't your campaign platform about the healing of the Colton Town Board and working together for the good of the town?

What a disappointment to those who voted for you. You have four honest, intelligent, elected council people to choose a deputy from; instead you chose to draw a line of mistrust and paranoia. What a slap in the face to those who were elected to serve their community.

As for your appointee, I believe there is a conflict of interest as he is a member of the fire commission, and the fire commission gets funding from the town. Further, if the newly appointed deputy is interested in town government, I suggest he gets his name on a ballot or at the least attend town meetings as a citizen to get the real feel of government and not slipped into the position without any knowledge of what goes on!

I feel betrayed and disillusioned. I can't imagine what the four council people must feel.

I want my vote back, Bill.
